Federal Criminal Appellate Practice Seminar

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the First Circuit and the members of the court's Criminal Appellate Practice Bar Education Committee are hosting a court-sponsored, one-day seminar on the following dates:

Monday, February 11, 2019, 8:00a.m.-5:00p.m., at the Condado Vanderbilt Hotel, San Juan, Puerto Rico

Monday, May 13, 2019, 8:00a.m.-5:00p.m., at the Seaport Hotel, Boston, Massachusetts

Thursday, May 16, 2019, 8:00a.m.-5:00p.m., at the Portland Regency Hotel, Portland, Maine

The program will feature a presentation by the Honorable David J. Barron, United States Circuit Judge for the First Circuit Court of Appeals, on best practices for federal appellate court brief writing and the presentation of oral argument. The program will also include a panel discussion of the step by step process for a criminal appeal and address additional procedural and substantive topics (e.g., issue preservation, forfeiture, waiver and standards of review; crimes of violence and predicate acts; and recaps of recent First Circuit and Supreme Court cases).

Both experienced and less seasoned practitioners will benefit from the seminar.

There is no charge to attend. CLE accreditation, where appropriate, will be requested and certificates of attendance will be distributed at each seminar.
